

PARKER'S "ASTORIAN"

ASTORIAN NATION

His Philippine Outbreak
Portends Disaster.

A CHALLENGE TO PATRIOTISM

"Man Like Buchanan" Reveals a Weakness in the Hands of His Political Advisers.

Candidate Parker's violent arraignment of the national policy in the Philippines is the political sensation of the moment, temporarily overshadowing all other issues of the campaign and calling special attention to the personality of the candidate who could bring himself to utter such sentiments.

Ex-President Cleveland's comparison of Parker and Buchanan, which attracted widespread attention last week, now becomes the subject of renewed interest in consequence of this Philippine remark. It shows Cleveland's estimate to be entirely well-founded and timely. Hardly had the character sketch reached the public than Candidate Parker has shown himself in the similitude of Buchanan, but yielding to the importunities of revolutionary advisers and uttering words tending to embroil the country in sanguinary conflicts within its own territory.

Candidate's Weakness Betrayed.

If any enemy of the Democratic candidate had wished to harm the latter's candidacy before the people he could effect more than Judge Parker has done for himself in attacking the patriotism of the big-hearted Americans who have rendered such notable service in the archipelago. On the mere statement of an anonymous "student of conditions," Candidate Parker described the situation in the Philippines as intolerable, accused those in office in the Philippines as representing "the dregs of this country," and charged the Republican party with "standing for the subjugation of defenseless foreign people." "Intending to hold the Philippines in perpetual bondage," of not even "leaving open the door of hope" for them. Finally, after praising the spirit of revolt existent in the islands, the candidate warned and threatened the Republican party and hinted at a possible insurrection by saying: "I warn the Republican party that it is not an unheard of proposition that an oppressed—I use the term advisedly—an oppressed people should be reviled."

After this the rest of the address was devoted to gloomy forebodings over the alleged dangers threatening the United States from the policy of "imperialism," as it is seen by the Democratic candidate, and the speech closed with the suggestion that the dissolution of the United States Government was imminent if his warnings were not heeded.

Called a Bad Blunder.

The general view of the speech is that it is the monumental blunder of the campaign, both for its misrepresentation of the facts of American rule in the islands, as well as for its practical incitement to outbreak on the part of Filipinos. No matter what acute differences of opinion Americans have on the question of intervention, they hush them all when patriotism is the issue. This has always been the case to such a large degree that the dissenters form a very sorry showing by comparison. Judge Parker's earnest supporters will hardly be able to condone such an unseemly attempt to put patriotism under foot in order to exalt partisanship.

As has always been the case, such abuse of the American freedom of speech has invariably been followed by some outbreak in the islands, led by deluded natives who, hearing only one side, believe such words as Judge Parker has uttered have the approval and support of the American people. While the authors of such remarks remain in the United States, the lives of hundreds of American soldiers in the islands are put in jeopardy. In comparison with Candidate Parker's views in the heat of a political campaign, it is interesting to note the view taken by men who have studied the situation in the islands.

What Taft Has Said.

Secretary of War Taft, whose three years as governor of the islands gave him a knowledge of the Filipino people, their needs, and aspirations that can never be even approximated by Judge Parker and the "Little Americans" holding the same limited views, states solemnly and conscientiously that the insurrection was prolonged at least two years by the opposition to the Government's policy by Democratic Senators and others.

Judge Parker's speech is regarded as plunging him squarely into the same category as Rawlins, Culberson, and other violent speakers in the Senate, whose fiery speeches have deluded the Filipinos with the vain hope that their views were better than those of Taft, Wright, and the other commissioners right there in the islands.

General Lawton's Prophecy.

Judge Parker's speech has recalled the memorable words of the lamented General Lawton, who was killed on the firing line in the Philippines, a short time after news of the inflammatory speeches in the Senate had been circulated in the archipelago. This agitation of the subject by men having the prestige of United States Senators stirred up the dying embers of the revolt, and Lawton's life was the first sacrifice paid in consequence.

Bishop Brent's Views.

Bishop Brent of the Philippines, who was in Washington at the time of the Archbishop of Canterbury's recent visit, expressed views exactly the opposite from what Judge Parker says. The Democratic candidate speaks from no personal knowledge, while Bishop Brent has spent three years there studying the people and internal conditions, and returned here only five weeks ago.

Speaking in private upon the conduct of the anti-imperialists in the United States, the bishop employed language less restrained than when speaking or writing in public, though to the same

Delaware Stirred by
New Party Alignments

Reconciled Republicans Have Poor Outlook for Campaign Funds—Allee's Star Rising as State Leader—Addicks Is Out.

In behalf of the "conciliation" ticket agreed upon in Delaware by the Republican Party, under State Chairman Ball, and the Addicks faction, under State Chairman Allee, the "revised" State campaign will be opened in Wilmington tomorrow night. The harmony candidate of the warring Republicans—Foster Lea, of Wilmington—will be on hand to make the acquaintance of the voters, and others of the new ticket will make addresses.

This meeting is expected to be the most kaleidoscopic gathering held in the Diamond State in many years. The rumor has gone abroad that there is no longer any such thing as "Addicks' barrel," and that all the needy voters can depend upon is the gasman's "bucket." This compares so unfavorably with the days when votes were worth $40 cash that there is a growing element of dissatisfaction. Evidence of it is looked for at the harmony meeting, in the assembling of Republicans of all shades, colors, descriptions, and conditions of previous servitude, who see in the new Allee-Higgins combine the dominating party of the future in Delaware.

Need Campaign Funds.

How to raise a sufficient campaign fund is the main topic of consideration now, and, according to a dispatch from Delaware, it is agitating the leaders greatly. They seem to think that, financially speaking, Addicks is "down and out" of politics.

The Addicks men are banking on Senator Allee's judgment in agreeing to the nomination of Lea, and they expect the candidate to come forward with a handsome contribution. Lea is one of the wealthiest men in Wilmington, but he has fought shy of politics. So the Addicks workers declare he will not be hit hard in a financial way. Some of them think that the candidate for governor should surely come up with $20,000. They argue that Addicks would consider this a mere drop in the bucket. Then T. Coleman duPont, the Union Republican, thinks that Addicks will produce a similar sum, thus providing a fund of $40,000.

effect. He declared that it is nothing less than a national crime and dishonor for politicians to make the American occupation of the Philippines a partisan issue. In terms that were possibly more becoming to his manhood and patriotism than to his episcopal office, he characterized the defenders of America's representatives in the islands as "scoundrel scoundrels," and paid a tribute to the courage, patience, self-sacrifice and nobility of the latter in the marauding assault upon their character and motives.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

"Old Boys' Club" Will Hoist Their Banner to the Breeze—New Yorkers Busy.

Plans are being perfected by the "Old Boys' Club" and the Roosevelt and Fairbanks League for a big blow-out tomorrow night, when the banner, which the "Old Boys" have been endeavoring to hoist for several weeks, will be thrown to the breeze.

President Marble and Secretary Odell are busy this morning arranging a program. A number of prominent speakers are to deliver addresses. The meeting will be held in the street in front of the Riggs House headquarters.

New York Republicans have opened a bureau of information for voters in room 23, in the Riggs House, which is open from 7 in the morning until 10 at night. Everything in the way of information appertaining to registration, railroad tickets, the election generally can be obtained there. William C. Connor is in charge of the bureau.

The New Yorkers are paying their own expenses, having refused campaign contributions. They have sent out 1,000 circulars, issued 600 voters' certificates, and have arranged and paid the expense of three of the largest meetings held by the Republicans in Washington.

SEARCHING SARANAC
WOODS FOR LOST MAN

SARANAC LAKE, Oct. 17.—Searchers are hunting the woods for a well-dressed stranger, who arrived here from Saranac Springs Saturday, and disappeared three hours later. He said he was "S. Murphy," and took a room in the house of Richard Finnegan, saying that he would remain some time. When he did not appear at Murphy's collar, which he had left on a table in his room.

CREW LEAPS OFF AS SHIP SINKS AT SEA

ROCK ISLAND, Oct. 17.—The fishing schooner Clara, of Manchester, Mass., sprang a leak, during a heavy sea, at Point Judith Channel, and sank fifteen minutes later.

Capt. Granville Palmer and his crew escaped their dories, casting off as the schooner settled, and lost everything on board.

Scattering contributions will come from the rich Wilmington manufacturers, while such politicians as Senator Allee and Secretary of State Layton might give $100 each. Beyond that the lower State Republicans depend on Corbett and his national committee.

May Mean Addicks' End.

The most noteworthy fact in connection with the coming meeting is the general acceptance of the belief that the Higgins element of New Castle county and the Union Republicans, under Allee, have combined for future as well as present action. Should Addicks be down and out, the friends of Higgins believe the Allee influence would be thrown in his favor for the United States Senate to succeed Ball, although it is also whispered that the ultimate idea of T. Coleman duPont is to go to the Senate, duPont being a wealthy man, would be more attractive to the Union Republicans.

This Allee-Higgins combine puts Dr. Caleb R. Layton out of the running. Just what his political future will be is a question. But the Higgins men will have to reckon with Horace G. Knowles, who was locked out of the Addicks campaign. It seems certain that in the future Knowles will have to fight his own battles, as this is the third time within four years he has been thrown down by the Higgins crowd. A large element of the Republicans of the county will follow Knowles, and it is tonight that he may make against the Higgins element.

Fighting New Combine.

The Addicks men in Wilmington, under the direction of Chairman Bradley, are up against the new Allee-Higgins regime. They are ranked by the way Senator Allee went over their heads in the harmony negotiations and the combination of Allee and the Higgins men, giving these important jobs to the Higgins regulars. Altogether they feel they have been sold out and are looking around for ways and means to rehabilitate themselves.

Governor Hunt ignored the Union Republicans in appointing the voters' assistants under the State election law, giving these important jobs to the Higgins regulars. Altogether they feel they have been sold out and are looking around for ways and means to rehabilitate themselves.

WAS KIDNAPED, SAYS
BOSTON DETECTIVE

Tells Curious Tale of Having Been Marooned on an Island.

HINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 17.—Kidnaped at Weymouth, marooned for a week on a small island in Boston Harbor, plentifully supplied with liquor, and occasionally visited and fed by his abductors, is the alleged experience of George E. version, who says his occupation is to detect illegal liquor selling.

He says that he was employed by a man whose name he refuses to divulge, to obtain evidence against persons engaged in selling liquor illegally in Weymouth. Within a week, as he says, he had secured evidence enough to convict the proprietors of four of these places. A week ago, he says, a stranger asked him to take a ride with him to Nantasket Beach. During the ride the stranger produced a quart bottle of whisky, from which several drinks were taken. The spotter says the liquor must have been drugged.

When he regained his senses he found himself on a small island, and, he says, he remained until he escaped.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION
DEBATES SALARY QUESTION

Columbia Typographical Union, in session yesterday afternoon, considered the report of the special committee on revision and codification of the constitution and by-laws. Some important changes were discussed, and the report was freely discussed.

The section providing the most discussion was the one which contemplates a readjustment of the salaries of the officers of the union. Some salaries are to be reduced, while others are increased.

The report was only considered in part, final action being postponed until the next regular meeting of the union.

FOR BALTIMORE

Pennsy Plans Big Improvements.

BELT LINE FOR FREIGHT

New Structure Will Be of Imposing Proportions—Work to Begin Soon.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will begin soon two important works of great interest to Baltimore.

The first is the construction of a new union station. This is to be built upon the present site, but on a much larger and more comprehensive scale.

Imposing Entrances.

It will not only have an imposing entrance from Charles Street, but will have an approach from St. E. St. Street. The main reception room for the public will be on a level with Charles Street. This will include the ticket offices and other public features. Offices for the officials at this station will be supplied in the building. The restaurant, which will be a feature, will be the main floor. The baggage, package room, etc., will be in the lower story.

Freight Line Around City.

The second important work to be undertaken is the construction of a freight line around the city. The purpose is to build a belt railroad around the city, so that freight trains would not have to pass through the city. This line will connect the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad east of Baltimore with the same road south of Baltimore without passing through either the Union or Baltimore and Potomac tunnels.

This line will also form a connection with the Northern Central Railroad, diverting from the main line to the large interchange of freight traffic between the Northern Central and the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington lines for Washington and the South can be made without passing through the Baltimore and Potomac tunnels.

In like manner the freight traffic of the Northern Central to and from the tidewater terminals at Canton will be moved around the city without passing through the Union Railroad tunnel.

Calvert Station Next.

With these two works undertaken, there remains but one more thing for the Pennsylvania Railroad to do in Baltimore, after which its entire terminal proposition here, both freight and passenger, will be upon a thoroughly modern scale. This is the reconstruction of Calvert Station and the removal of the approaches at grade to this depot.

DOWIE BECOMES GENTLE
IN HIS NEW ROBES

The Fuming "Elijah" Speaks for an Hour Without Once Getting Furious.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Oct. 17.—With the robes of the "First Apostle" John Alexander Dowie has assumed a more gentle spirit. He spoke for an hour and a half in Shiloh Tabernacle yesterday, and it was the "tamest" sermon he has been heard to preach in a long time.

He even didn't get furious at the violent shouting in all parts of the hall, and said he believed in fun at religious meetings.

NEWS FROM GEORGETOWN.

SHOT A MAD DOG.

A dog which was thought to have had the rabies was shot yesterday by Police Officer Brown of the Seventh precinct. The animal, which was a large black and white dog, was shot in the street. It belonged to Walter Harvey, of 1530 Thirtieth Street northwest.

FRACTURED AN ARM.

Peter Harris, a colored man, forty-six years of age, while at work on the wharf of the Cranford Company, on K Street northwest, fell from a platform two feet high, and sustained a fractured arm and a number of cuts and bruises about the face and head.

GIVEN MORE LEAVE.

Police Officer T. B. Lipscomb, of the Seventh precinct, has been granted a special sick leave, his regular sick leave having expired. About two months ago Police Officer Lipscomb received an injury to his right eye, which may result in the loss of the sight. While watching a plumber put a piece of pipe on O Street, near Thirtieth Street, a piece of the metal fell into his eye. Since that time he has been incapacitated for duty.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Edgar P. Berry, cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank, corner Thirtieth and M Streets northwest, is suffering at his home, on U Street northwest, from a stroke of paralysis.

WEEMS LIFE GIVES EMPLOYEES A BONUS

Old Servants Will Obtain $25,000 in Gifts.

COMPANY SOLD OUT LATELY

With the $1,000,000 Realized, Officers of Corporation Will Reward the Faithful Workers.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 17.—As a reward for many years of service the oldest employees of the Weems Steamboat Company will receive $25,000 of the $1,000,000 paid for the company's property by the new syndicate of Northern capitalists last Monday.

This money has been turned over to Henry Williams, president of the Weems Company, to be distributed as he deems best. Mr. Williams said last night that a part of the sum had already been given to old employees.

The suggestion that the oldest employees of the company be handsomely rewarded was made by Mrs. Williams, wife of ex-President Williams, and Mrs. Matilda Forbes, the principal owners of the stock, and Mr. Williams brought the matter before the board of directors. All favored the suggestion, and it was decided that $25,000 would be a suitable amount.

Each Man Gets Part.

Mr. Williams, when seen by a reporter last night, at his residence, 407 West Lantana Street, said: "They (the older employees) have helped us during many long years, and now we want to help them. Should any of the men who have served the Weems Steamboat Company faithfully for a quarter of a century or more lose their positions by reason of the consolidation to form the new syndicate, they would be most grateful to have for each man's share of the $25,000 will be a nice sum."

Some Beneficiaries.

Among those who will receive a good part of the money are Capt. James Gourley and Henry S. Beale, who are the oldest employees of the company in point of service. Captain Gourley is commander of the steamer St. Mary's and the senior captain of the Weems fleet. He has been with the company for more than half a century, longer than any other man in the company. He has been with the company for more than thirty-eight years, and is at present general manager.

The names of several others who will be beneficiaries of the fund were mentioned by Mr. Williams. Capt. L. N. Dade, commander of the steamer Westmoreland, was a soldier in the Confederate army and entered the employ of the company shortly after the civil war.

Served Thirty Years.

Capt. James Burroughs, of the steamship Lancaster, has been in the service for about thirty years. Among the oldest employees are John Dure of the steamer Middlesex, and Thomas Gouley, of the St. Mary's, brother of Captain Gourley. Both have been with the company for more than thirty-five years.

There are many others who have been in the employ of the Weems Company for fifteen, twenty, and twenty-five years, and these, too, will be compensated by generous slices from the $25,000 lump.

The distribution of the money has been entrusted entirely to ex-President Williams by the directors.

HOUSE OF GEORGE NIXON
ROBBED BY DAYLIGHT

Jewelry and silverware valued at $200 was stolen from the residence of George N. Nixon, 2014 Wyoming Avenue northwest yesterday afternoon, and Captain Boardman has assigned several headquarters detectives to investigate the case.

The burglar entered the house in broad daylight, and selected the best time, as no one was in the house from 7 o'clock in the afternoon until after 7 in the evening. Mr. Nixon and his family returned in the evening and found everything tumbled and tossed about and broken.

It was discovered that entrance had been gained by forcing open the front door.

From the marks on the door and the jam it looked as though a jimmy had been used. It is believed that thieves from out of town robbed the house and the local authorities are on the lookout for suspicious persons.
